

INRUN - European youth Inspiring New RUral Narratives

Training course for youth workers- 6th-12th of June 2023 - Rueglio - Italy

INRUN

INRUN is a project funded by the Erasmus+ Programme of the European Union and promoted by the Italian NGO CISV (cisvto.org)

Why INRUN?

In Europe, rural narratives are negative or idealized

Less and less people live in rural areas

Dominant narratives create the frameworks in which political decisions are considered acceptable

Why INRUN?

INRUN aims to contribute to generate and inspire new inclusive, real, endogenous rural narratives, starting from a collective historical memory and, at the same time, with a look towards the future.

Why INRUN?

OBJECTIVES

- a) to train a group of youth workers on how to generate new narratives of rural areas in Europe together with young people
- b) to experiment with the tools of participatory documentary and digital storytelling in working with young people

Why INRUN?

OBJECTIVES

c) to create and strengthen a network of youth workers who, even after the end of the project, support each other and exchange experiences and information on youth work

What is INRUN?

A 7 days training for youth workers (6th-12th of June)

Arrivals: 5th of June, before dinner

Departures: 13th of June, after breakfast

21 participants, 3 facilitators

Participants:

Italy (6), Denmark (3), Estonia (3), Poland (3), Portugal (3), Spain (3)

What are we going to experience together?

1 practical workshop on how to use the participatory documentary and digital storytelling as a tool for generating new rural narratives

Several opportunities to share and create new non-formal educational tools to use in youth work

Visits to agroecological local experiences and meetings with local community

What are we going to experience together?

Informal moments in nature context in order to share experiences and build new networks

Collective production of 4 videos and 1 guide for youth workers on participatory documentary that will be presented in an important summer film festival on environmental and sustainability issues (Cinemambiente), with a live streaming open to all interested youth workers in Europe

A short description of the practical workshop on how to use the participatory documentary and digital storytelling (by the facilitators)

“During the workshop participants will be invited to share their experiences of life in the rural world supported by a story circle. Within these stories, a series of common themes will then be identified around which participants will form working groups whose task will be to explore the rural world in search of dialogue and confrontation through audiovisual language. The result of these encounters with the territory will be a series of short videos made with the technique of "digital storytelling" that will include footage shot by the participants with means that are easily accessible to them (smartphones or similar), archive materials both visual and audio in combination with the voices of the participants who will tell their stories. The editing of the videos will be carried out by the workshop facilitators in continuous dialogue with the participants, with the aim of presenting a first version of the editing already by the end of the main activity. The whole process of making the videos will be understood as a process of research and building a relationship with the surrounding reality in which the questions that arise are more important than the answers and the quality of the experience of all the people involved is more important than the realisation of a standardised product.”
